TP Debate: Resolved: That the United States federal government should substantially reform its revenue generation policies. And LD Debate: Resolved: When in conflict, personal freedom ought to be valued above economic security.

Join us for this interdisciplinary workshop for students and parents, covering the intersection of economics, public policy, civics, and history.

Homeschool Policy and LD students interested in federal revenue, tax policy, economic security, and personal freedom, will learn the dynamics of tax and revenue policy and the through the ages. Economic principles and lessons from history will help students better understand today's financial and public policy issues. LD students should consider Benjamin Franklin's quote: Those who would give up essential liberty to purchase a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety. Historical Review of Pennsylvania, 1759

Economic Thinking's Greg Rehmke and will discuss and apply economic principles helping students understand economic principles, and why economic freedom, prosperity, and stability seems so illusive.

- Gregory Rehmke directs Economic Thinking, consults for the the Institute for Economic Studies-Europe, and directs seminars for Independent Institute. He is coauthor of The Complete Idiot's Guide to Global Economics.
